Resistance and their Families”

Thursday, January 26, 2012 | Reception 7:00 pm | Program 7:30 pm

Pictures of Resistance, a thirty-panel exhibit of photographs taken by Jewish partisan Faye Schulman, will open a window into the life of those 20-30,000 Jews who escaped the ghettos and camps, and created or joined resistance groups. Their acts of courage restored dignity to the Jewish communities of Nazi-occupied Europe.

Admission is free to the exhibit and the January 26th program.
